CHICAGO MUSICAL ICONS

Chicago's music scene is second to none, rooted in blues and jazz, and a leader in myriad genres from all-country to hip-hop and beyond. Columbia students join Chicago musical icons for diverse and powerful Chicago-style music. Columbia is proud to welcome these artists to Manifest:

JON LANGFORD is a Welsh-born, Chicago-based musician who is known best as the drummer and founding member of the Mekons. Known as a father figure to the Chicago music scene, he has released 21 albums including his first solo album in 1998. Jon is a rotating host on The Eclectic Company, a radio show on Chicago's WXRT.

Chicago-born rapper LUPE FIASCO first caught our attention in 2006 following the success of his Atlantic Records debut, which received three Grammy Award nominations. The MC has gained notoriety from working with Kanye West, Fabolous and The Game. Fiasco, a devout Muslim and soulful thinker, played a free show last year at the Student Programming Board's Chaos event.

YON FREEMAN is one of Chicago's most influential jazz leaders. Joining talents like Charlie Parker, Dizzy Gillespie, Gene Ammons, Sun Ra and Jimmy Reed (to name a few), Freeman is considered one of the founders of the "Chicago School" of jazz tenorists.
